I have windows 7 Ultimate. I have adobe photoshop CS5. I have a friend with a creative cloud account. She asked if I could use the image that she has in creative cloud to print a print out for her. I told her I did not know how to do that. I thought I would post this question here. Does anyone know how to do this. I do not have adobe any how. Can I do this by using a virtual machine on my computer? Would that work? I am not the most advanced computer user by any means. You can use Gimp to do that. Just install a Windows7 Virtual Machine from here and install Gimp: Using a Windows 7 Virtual Machine is a much more direct way to get the job done. You can make a virtual machine with a Windows 7 installation CD and in just a few minutes have a Windows 7 operating system. You can use Windows 7 as a virtual machine on your Windows 7 Ultimate computer without having to install any operating system on the computer. Just download the VirtualBox Windows 7 image (1177 KB) and use the install.exe to install Windows 7 in your VirtualBox virtual machine. My guess is that the real reason you want to use a Mac is because you have already decided that the art program you want to use will only work on a Mac. That is just my guess. Please make sure that that is not the case. I am sure she will be happy with a print on paper. I think the printer does not do a digital print. I have a Mac Mini and have used it to use Photoshop. She just needs to know where to go and how to use the program. I have provided some instructions for her. Thanks for the Virtualbox Windows image. As I have never used VirtualBox, how is it different from VirtualPC? I am very happy with the Mac Mini. It has been 82157476af
