Plot

Following the events of Jurassic World, Claire Dearing, Owen Grady, and the park's guests are moved back to the island, where they encounter a flying dinosaur which crashes. Although Claire is able to destroy the dino with a laser, the dino's wing takes damage, and it falls to the island where a team of rescue workers attempt to destroy the dino. Before they can finish, the dino escapes. Claire, Owen, and a park employee named Claire's brother Carter Burrell, are taken by helicopter to a boat. Burrell is dropped off first, where he witnesses Claire try to destroy the dinosaur's wing. The bird of prey attacks Claire's group; the helicopter then drops her off next, and Owen falls from the helicopter. He narrowly survives the fall. Carter is then dropped off, and he is attacked by the same bird. As he falls to his death, he is pulled into the water by an unseen force, which causes Owen to drown. Before they are taken to the helicopter, Carter shows them a message on his smartwatch, from the plane that Claire and Owen are supposed to be on. The same group that attacked Carter were also in that plane. They reach the island and are moved to a villa, where a group of FBI officers interrogate them. They soon learn that there is an unknown force that attacked them. The FBI send in military troops to investigate the island. Claire tells the soldiers about the flying dinosaur that attacked her and Carter. Claire, Owen, and Carter's daughter Zoe then flee the island and the soldiers, who are soon stranded on the island as well. A new dino, 82157476af
